Tanzanian specialty products ride 'CIIE Express' into Chinese market

The Tanzania Pavilion at the 6th CIIE

In a testament to the burgeoning economic partnership between China and Tanzania, the China International Import Expo (CIIE) has emerged as a pivotal platform for showcasing Tanzania's unique products to a global audience.

Over the past six years, Tanzania has consistently showcased its agricultural products at CIIE, with its renowned coffee taking center stage. Coffee, a staple among Tanzania's traditional export crops, thrives in the country's southern highlands, particularly around Mount Kilimanjaro. The volcanic soil of the Kilimanjaro region imbues the coffee with a luxurious texture and a delicate acidity, rendering it truly distinctive.

While exporting agricultural products to China typically entails more intricate procedures than regular goods, the CIIE has streamlined the process through a range of favorable policies, facilitating Tanzanian coffee companies like Afri Tea & Coffee Blenders (1963) Ltd in exporting their coffee products to the Chinese market.

At the 6th CIIE, Afri Tea & Coffee Blenders found a coffee distributor for its products. Beyond mere transactions, the company aimed to use CIIE as a gateway to the Chinese market, seeking to establish enduring partnerships and construct a robust and dependable supply chain.

An exhibitor introduces products to Chen Mingjian, Chinese ambassador to Tanzania.

Cashews, another jewel in Tanzania's agricultural crown, also made a significant impact at the expo. In 2023, the 6th CIIE yielded promising results for Tanzania, with cashews being the top-selling Tanzanian product at the event. Tanzanian cashews have become one of the most popular Tanzanian specialties at the expo.

Moreover, seaweed sourced from Zanzibar, Tanzania, a distinctive product with versatile applications as a food ingredient or industrial resource, seized the opportunity to showcase itself to the Chinese audience at the CIIE.

With the backing of the economic and commercial office of the Chinese embassy in Tanzania, Tanzanian entrepreneurs showcased seaweed-based products like soaps, teas, and essential oils for the first time at the CIIE.

A Tanzanian businessman expressed optimism that if Zanzibar seaweed gains a foothold in the Chinese market through the CIIE, it could significantly contribute to local female employment, improving their economic status and living standards.

The CIIE has become an excellent platform for promoting trade between China and Tanzania, serving as an important window for enhancing economic and trade exchanges.

In 2023, the bilateral trade volume between China and Tanzania reached $8.78 billion, an 8.9 percent increase year-on-year. China has remained Tanzania's largest trading partner for eight consecutive years. To promote bilateral trade, China has granted zero-tariff treatment for 98 percent of Tanzanian products, including avocados, seafood, and cashews.

As China and Tanzania gear up to celebrate the 60th anniversary of their diplomatic relations this year, the enduring partnership stands as a beacon of China-Africa cooperation, setting an example of South-South Cooperation.

The 2024 Summit of the Forum on China-Africa Cooperation was held in Beijing in September and the 7th CIIE set for November in Shanghai will continue to provide further avenues for dialogue and cooperation between the two nations. The 7th CIIE, in particular, will highlight the tangible outcomes of cooperation between China and Tanzania, advance the Belt and Road Initiative, taking Sino-Tanzanian trade to new heights of mutual benefit.

CIIE paves way for Guinea-Bissau's products in Chinese market

The Guinea-Bissau Pavilion at the 6th CIIE

Guinea-Bissau, one of the top 10 global producers of cashews, produces over 250,000 metric tons of the nut annually, making this industry vital to the nation's economy. Approximately 80 percent of Guinea-Bissau's population relies on cashew production for their livelihood.

In recent years, Guinea-Bissau has worked to strengthen its ties with China, actively participating in major trade events across the country. Among these, the China International Import Expo (CIIE) stands out as a key platform for the nation to promote its products.

Antonio Serifo Embalo, Guinea-Bissau's ambassador to China, noted that events like the CIIE have provided valuable opportunities for Guinea-Bissau to showcase its agricultural products, particularly cashews.

In 2022, a cashew company from Guinea-Bissau learned through the country's trade department and the economic and commercial office of the Chinese embassy in Guinea-Bissau that the CIIE offers partial support, such as free exhibition booths, to exhibitors from least-developed countries. Eager to tap into the Chinese market, the company decided to promote its cashews at the expo.

Despite it being their first time participating in the event, the exhibitors from Guinea-Bissau found the process smooth and well-organized, thanks to the CIIE's comprehensive and user-friendly guidance. "The support they provided was so detailed and easy to understand, like helping a schoolchild with their homework. It made everything much easier for us," one of the exhibitors said.

To their surprise, the cashews were a big hit at the expo. The booth received visits from numerous trade missions and potential buyers daily, far exceeding their expectations.

The popularity of Guinea-Bissau's cashews at the CIIE has prompted the country's government to place even greater importance on the expo. In July 2023, China invited Guinea-Bissau to participate in the sixth CIIE and offered additional support. The relevant department of Guinea-Bissau quickly signed the exhibition agreement, carefully designing the pavilion and selecting representative products, including Guinea-Bissau's renowned wooden carvings. At the sixth CIIE, these carvings, known for their bold artistic style and elegant lines, attracted significant attention from visitors.

The benefits of participating in the CIIE continue to grow for Guinea-Bissau. Recently, a joint statement between China and Guinea-Bissau announced plans to accelerate the export of high-quality agricultural products, including cashews, to China. The statement also mentioned exploring local processing options to increase the value of these products.

"We've been eagerly awaiting this news," said Mamadu Jamanca, president of Guinea-Bissau's National Importers and Exporters Association. "We have high hopes for the vast Chinese market and look forward to working with Chinese companies to enhance the value of our products and benefit more of our people."

Guinea-Bissau President Umaro Sissoco Embalo attended the 2024 Summit of the Forum on China-Africa Cooperation in Beijing from Sept 4 to 6. Just two months later, the 7th CIIE will take place, continuing to create development opportunities for Guinea-Bissau and other least-developed countries.

H&M集团零售大中华区总裁柯懿德：
实体经济数字经济深度融合
为在华投资外企提供新机遇中国通过改革进一步放宽市场准入并加强知识产权保护，
推动营商环境持续改善，将为创新增长和共同繁荣铺平道路。

“从抵达上海的那一刻起，我就爱上了中国。”俄罗斯人柯懿德是H&M集团零售大中华区总裁。2023年初，他和家人搬到中国定居。在他看来，上海是一座非常特别的城市，也是世界上建筑风貌最为多样化的城市之一。

这次中国共产党二十届三中全会召开，柯懿德印象最深的是公报中关于“健全促进实体经济和数字经济深度融合制度”的内容。他认为这不仅帮助许多中国企业转型升级，也为在中国投资的外国企业提供了机遇。

“道路发展的数字经济正在重塑全球商业格局。H&M也在积极应对，进一步融合线上、线下渠道。我们的多个电子商务平台已成为客户与品牌之间的重要桥梁。让消费者无论身在何处都能享受到多样化的产品和优质的客户服务。”柯懿德介绍，今年H&M不但重新打造了上海南京东路旗舰店，去年还在京东等互联网平台上推出了自己的产品。

作为时尚行业资深从业者，柯懿德认为这个行业本质就是在变化，要想取得成功，唯一途径就是不断适应变化。“在中国，这种变化的速度更快十倍。中国的消费者令人着迷，他们非常清楚自己想要什么，他们的消费行为也是在不断朝着好的方向改变。”

因此，柯懿德来到中国后的第一件事，就是根据这些变化制定新战略。在他看来，中国的消费者喜欢简洁、优质、价格合理的商品，也期待他们喜爱的产品不断推陈出新。“这与H&M的商业理念完全吻合。通过实施新战略，我们正朝着符合消费者预期的方向前进。我们将继续扩大数字化版图，线上线下深度融合在H&M购物。”

据柯懿德介绍，H&M已经连续三年参加中国国际进口博览会，呈现了前瞻性的设计、供应链转型、突破性创新等不同领域的实践。同时，借助自身在时尚行业的影响力，H&M与中国供应商和合作伙伴等也持续推动生产价值链绿色转型升级探索。

“H&M始终与中国市场保持最紧密的合作关系，不仅提升了自身的知名度和影响力，也为未来的发展奠定了坚实基础。”

柯懿德认为，外国投资者对中国信心不断提升的关键，在于中国不断优化营商环境。未来，中国将通过进一步放宽市场准入并加强知识产权保护，推动营商环境持续改善，保障实体经济与数字经济深度融合，这些都将为创新增长和共同繁荣铺平道路。“展望未来，我们对中国的发展前景充满信心。中国一直是，而且将永远是H&M非常重要的市场。”柯懿德说。

Further Upgrade of Market Supervision Services for the 7th CIIE

The 7th China International Import Expo (CIIE) has further upgraded the market supervision services, further updated the Q&A bank for AI intelligent consulting services, added mobile monitoring equipment for the temporary catering spots, achieved full coverage of such functions as visitor flow monitoring and overload warning for elevators, further upgraded the integrated command platform; and consolidated and upgraded the facilitation measures, such as temporary permits and CCC exemptions.

The Shanghai Municipal Market Supervision Bureau has held the 7th CIIE Market Supervision and Service Work Promotion Meeting and the “100-day Countdown to 7th CIIE” Law Enforcement Action Mobilization and Deployment Meeting. With the general requirement of “making the CIIE better”, the market supervision department will highlight facilitation, intelligence, and environmental protection, and make efforts in such areas as sensible services and high-tech empowerment, thus ensuring zero error and zero negligence in security supervision work, providing exhibitors and visitors with more impeccable and featured services, and contributing to more sophisticated and efficient maintenance of the order of the exhibition.

Based on previous pavilion inspections, exhibit risks, food safety requirements, as well as complaints and reports, the Shanghai Municipal Market Supervision Bureau will implement classified and graded management for the CIIE exhibitors. Meanwhile, it will focus on the coordination of security guarantee and service development, the integration of daily work and special work, and the compatibility of supervisory management and guidance services, and do well on the safety supervision of food, drugs, and special equipment at exhibitions, exhibition consulting services and comprehensive inspection of the market order.

During the exhibition, the Shanghai Municipal Market Supervision Bureau will utilize the Shanghai Online Business Registration platform and the “Government Online-Offline Shanghai” platform to provide CIIE-related registration and consulting services for domestic and foreign business entities to facilitate enterprises and transform exhibitors into investors. Bilingual consumer complaint receptionists will be available at the market supervision service consulting desk in the exhibition halls to provide Chinese and English versions of the market supervision service guides and to publicize and explain the service matters and management requirements of the exhibitors. This year, a further update of the Q&A bank for AI intelligent consulting services will be made on the basis of the previous Q&As of interest to exhibitors and visitors and the automatic Q&A classification function will be embedded in the robots.

“The integrated command platform for market supervision service” will be upgraded to version 5.0, which will further enhance the level of early warning and monitoring, problem detection, data analysis, and command and scheduling capabilities. In particular, the Shanghai Municipal Market Supervision Bureau will install additional mobile monitoring equipment in the 10 centralized catering spots in the exhibition pavilions to carry out 360-degree online inspections, and remote command and scheduling can be achieved through the equipment to provide timely guidance and disposal of emergencies, reflecting the visible, scenario-based, and spot-based service guarantee related to food safety.

In 2023, the Shanghai Municipal Market Supervision Bureau piloted the visitor flow monitoring and congestion early warning functions on the escalators in the center-of-the-circle area of the National Exhibition and Convention Center. This year, all 28 escalators in the four landing halls will be equipped with real-time visitor flow monitoring and congestion early warning equipment. Through real-time monitoring of visitor flows on the elevators, the classified management and precise diversion approach will be implemented by three flow levels (i.e., high, medium, and low).

The AI risk warning will be upgraded, and the “risk issue disposal list” push mode will be added. Violation warnings, pest control warnings, and catering overload warnings captured by the video surveillance system will be pushed to enterprises and supervisory departments in the form of categorized risk issue disposal lists in real time to realize automated and closed-loop risk disposal and management.

The temporary license for imported special food, the CCC exemptions, and other facilitation policies have received a lot of attention from many exhibitors at the previous CIIEs. This year, under the authorization of the General Administration of Market Supervision (GAMS), Shanghai Municipal Market Supervision Bureau (SMMB) will continue to explore the “6+180+365” supervision service guarantee mode for special food products exhibited at the CIIE, provide temporary licenses for imported special food products exhibited at the CIIE, and assign professionals to cooperate with the GAMS to conduct prioritized on-site verification for the importation and registration of special food products exhibited at the CIIE, so that the exhibits can be turned into commodities more quickly. Relevant enterprises can submit an application through the “CCC exemption and special-purpose imported products testing and processing management system”, which will be quickly reviewed and approved by the market supervision department online. Before the opening of CIIE, the General Administration of Market Supervision will open a “convenient self-commitment channel for CCC exemptions” for the National Exhibition and Convention Center to achieve self-commitment, self-reporting, and automatic certification.

Shanghai Organizes the 100-day Action for IPR Protection for the 7th CIIE

Recently, the General Office of Shanghai Intellectual Property Joint Committee issued a notice on the city-wide organization of the 100-day action for IPR protection for the 7th CIIE from August 1 to November 10. Centering on the general requirement of “Making the CIIE Better”, efforts have been focused on three areas:

First, create a first-class environment for IPR protection. It will continue to strengthen judicial trial services for IPR, intensify legal supervision of IPR, intensify the crackdown on IPR crimes, deepen law enforcement and supervision of IPR, enhance the protection and collaboration in the Yangtze River Delta, and further step up efforts in rectifying serious IPR infringements.

Second, provide a first-class IPR service guarantee. It will do its best to provide on-site services at CIIE venues, give full play to the roles of various IPR service organizations, integrate various volunteer teams, and carry out IPR protection and related consulting services. IPR mediation organizations and arbitration organizations will be brought in to strengthen the “litigation-mediation docking” mechanism. Smooth reporting and complaint channels will be provided for IPR protection, and the IPR-related reports and complaints involving the CIIE from the 12315 hotline will be dealt with promptly, and a priority channel will be opened for fast handling and timely feedback.

Third, create a first-class atmosphere for IPR protection. It will innovate publicity carriers, enrich publicity products, and actively utilize traditional and emerging media to carry out multi-channel and all-round publicity work on IPR protection for the CIIE. Through the distribution of policy interpretations of the outline for building Shanghai into a strong intellectual property city and the 14th Five-Year Plan, as well as the special IPR promotional products issued by Shanghai Municipal Bureau of Justice, Shanghai People’s Procuratorate and Shanghai High People’s Court, it will actively publicize the development of Shanghai’s IPR protection and the latest IPR policies.

The 100-day action for IPR protection for the 7th CIIE will solidify the previous working mechanisms, experience, and practices, enhance the level of precise and refined services, support the successful holding and branding of the 7th CIIE, serve the high-level opening-up of China, and further create a first-class business environment that is market-oriented, law-based and internationalized.
